

FAR NIGHT

A night written for you alone.

GIVE IT YOUR NAME AND YOUR DATE OF BIRTH.

IT BUILDS A CITY NO ONE HAS EVER SEEN.

TWO LINES IN. ONE NIGHT OUT.

Far Night is a text adventure that builds an entire night out of two lines: your name and your date of birth. A rain-soaked megacity, a quest that belongs to you alone, six places painted the moment you walk in — then dawn, and the city closes for good.

01

TYPE YOUR NAME AND YOUR BIRTHDAY

That's the whole form. No account, no questionnaire, nothing to install.

02

WALK INTO A CITY BUILT FOR YOU

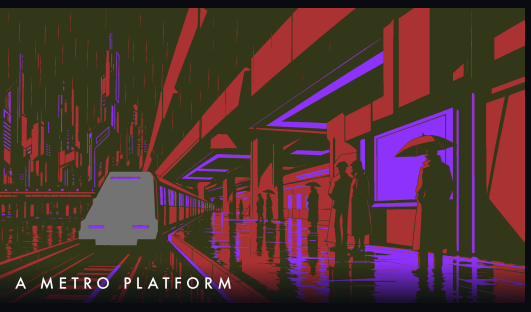

Your sign, your numbers and the meaning of your surname become what you go out to conquer, the way the city resists you, and the road in between.

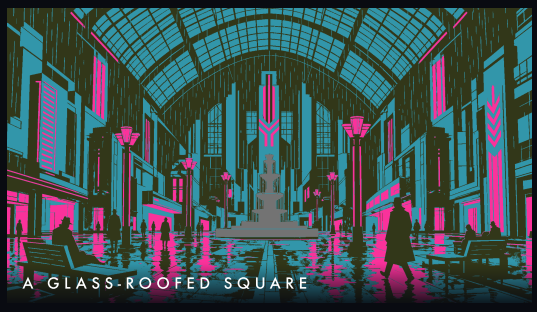

03

PLAY IT ONCE

No timer. Type what you want to do, ask people questions. At dawn the city withdraws, and no one will ever cross it again.

PLACES A NIGHT CAN INVENT

YOURS WILL LOOK LIKE NONE OF THESE.

Each place is painted in the palette of whoever walks in — the colours come from the player, not from the game.

WHY IT WORKS ON SCREEN

NOBODY CAN SPOIL YOUR NIGHT.

01 UNSPOILABLE BY DESIGN

Your city exists for you alone. Even after watching you play, your audience still has a night of their own ahead — one they have never seen.

02 TWO NAMES, TWO CITIES

Same game, different player, different night: other places, other people, another goal. Play yours, then compare with a friend's.

03 IT READS YOU

At the Door that leads out into the rain, the game steps out of the fiction for a moment and tells you what it has read in you. Then you step out into the rain.

04 THE EIGHTIES, REWIRED

You type, the city answers — like the text adventures of the eighties, with a painted image for every place and a bionic eye to read people's names.

05 AN EVENT, NOT A GRIND

One night, one ending, then the city closes for good. No levels, no grinding, no season pass: a story with a last page.

06 EASY FOR YOUR AUDIENCE

Any browser, phone or computer, in fifteen languages. The first scene is free and complete: your viewers can step in right after your video.

THE BEST WAY TO FILM IT

STAY AT THE COUNTER.

For your video, stay in the opening room: the party, the bartender, the regular who wears the augmentation, and the Door, where the game tells you what it has read in you. Stop there. The other places and their colours are for your audience to discover by themselves — and the Counter is free, so they can walk in right after you.

FOR CREATORS

YOUR NIGHT IS ON US.

We'd love you to play. Write to us and we'll send you an invitation: the whole night, free — the opening room, six places invented for you alone, and the dawn you get to keep.

LENGTH	One night, no timer — open for eight days
FOR PLAYERS	First scene free, then €9 once
REPLAY	None. That's the point

WHEN YOU TALK ABOUT IT

- On camera, stay at the Counter: the other places and their colours are your audience's to discover — and theirs won't look like yours anyway.
- It's a text adventure — no stats, no classes, no levelling up.
- All it asks for is a name and a date of birth, and none of it is stored on any server.

IN PRODUCTION Video is on its way: we're currently producing video content to illustrate the show.
